

Calvin Saunders 17/12/92 – 28/02/10

"The boy who solved everyone's problems and always made people laugh. Your face was always lit up with a smile or if not, it would be some kind of stupid face you would pull. If there was a party, you would be at it; never missed a thing did you. I guess that was good though as you were always the life and soul of the night. The girls! Let's not even get started on you and the girl's Calv! You sure did break a few hearts I'll give you that one. You had them all after you player, but who could blame them really when someone looked as good as you. Guess we should get off that subject though as we can't have you head getting any bigger can we now haha.

I don't think anyone could ever say a bad word about you; it was always positive, about how bubbly you were or the stupid things you would come out with. People would laugh for hours at you. You were so kind and caring and would go out of your way to do anything for anyone from your best mates to people you've only met once. I guess it's true what they say 'Only the good die young'. I guess you liked your technology; from your x-box to msn to facebook. You were always on one of these. You would have conversations with people from morning until night and still, they would never get bored of you. I bet you're up there now, aren't you, playing on Call Of Duty, screaming and shouting through the headset at your new friends, I bet you've got loads. You always were easy to get along with. Let's just hope you don't stink the place out too much; you used to do that a lot if I remember rightly.

I hope you're proud of your family and friends now, they've been so strong for you. Words can't even begin to describe how much you're missed. It still doesn't seem real to this day. I think everyone is still expecting one of those random phone calls or texts from you, even the prank calls that everyone clearly knew was you. You weren't that sly were you? Hope you're having a great time up there and everyone can't wait to see you again. This time without you, as you would say, has been the 'wust'. You haven't left anyone's mind since you've been gone - I hope you feel honoured. You'll be loving all of this attention.

You'll always be remembered Calvin."

Kirsty and Sam
Year 11 Students at Hereford Technology School
12 March 2010